Little By Little

Josue Ramirez

"Mommy, my stomach hurts," complained little seven-year-old Sara Floy. The mother ignored her daughter. Children always complain about something. "Mom, my stomach hurts," she said again a few days later. The mother, this time, gave her a chamomile tea.

"Mommy, my stomach hurts," Sara complained for the third time. This time the mother took her to the doctor. In effect, the girl was sick. She had a ball of hair the size of an apple in her stomach. "This girl has been eating her hair since she was two years old," the doctor said, "and hair by hair, for five years, that ball has formed."

Cases like this are not rare. Some children have a habit of putting their hair, one by one, into their mouths. Others, the tip of the nails. And little by little they are ingesting things that the stomach can not digest, until at last a ball is formed that eventually causes serious problems.

There are also people who do not eat their hair, but they do eat their frustrations. Little by little, since the conscious life begins, perhaps even at six or seven years of age, they begin to swallow their problems, and a ball of frustrations forms in the soul.

Others have to feed on hatreds. Little by little, and day after day, they take hatred against some person, things of the imperfect human heart, and those hatreds accumulate and harden until they form a ball of resentment that one day causes an explosion.

Others accumulate bitter memories. They never remember the good of life but only the bad. And bad memories of the past never make a happy present. Who only contemplates his sadness and failures does not expose any healthy things from the soul.

Others and this is the worst, go swallowing sins. Their conscience accuses them again and again, but in the long run the conscience also gets tired and stops talking. The ball keeps growing until it destroys mind, soul and heart.

Whatever the ball of hair that is in our soul, in our memory, in our conscience, Christ can dissolve it. He is the Savior of everything: body, soul and spirit. And He is also the Healer of the past, the present and the future. How awful must be the feeling in the heart, conscience and mind of this disease called sin when kept growing untreated in our inner being. There is no need to accumulate burdens when Christ can give us peace. He is waiting for you with open arms. Let's give our lives to Him.
